"I'M IN A HURRY!"

"I HAVEN'T TIME!"

By MARGARET L. BRIGGS.

(All Rights Reserved.)

Did you ever think how often you hear the expressions "I'm in a hurry" and "I haven't time?" Could anything be more absurd than the way some people, especially some women, rush through life? The more trivial the incidents the greater the haste. It is perhaps natural that women who live out their lives at home attending to their household should regard the small matters of every day as fit occasions for haste, but it certainly has its humorous side when one has been buffeled by real events in the

The woman who takes things at home with such seriousness is always a nervous woman, and no amount of coaxing will get her to let up in her feverish haste to get things done on time. It's hurry to get up in the morning, hurry to get breakfast, hury to wash dishes, to sweep, to dust, to sew, to bake. "If you want anything of me you'll have to be quick, for I'm in a hurry." This is the refrain she sings all day long.

It's an awful trial to such a woman to have for a husband a deliberate fellow who usually arrives on time, but never appears to hustle. But I wonder what happens in homes where both husband and wife have the same affliction. I doubt if there are many such homes, for this haste habit is distinctly a feminine specialty and has a logical cause in a neryour condition, which in turn results usually from uterine derangement,

How often have you heard it said of one of these thin, nervous women. who has finally succuntbed to the grim destroyer, "Poor soul, she's over her hurry now!" And you actually begin to wonder how she found time to die, for she was always saying she "hadn't time to be sick."

Such women would either laugh or get angry if you told them that their excessive hurry was a symptom of disease. They would suggest that they left a good deal of work behind them any way, and it might be a good plan if more people had the same kind of disease,

These women do their work "by the hardest" and do unnecessary things all the time. Their judgment is faulty at all points. To accomplish trivial tasks they boldly jeopardize health, and harmony, and happiness. Their efforts at comfort and pleasure are mixed up with worry for fear something "isn't going just right." They completely fail to understand how to get the good out of life, and when the real cause of their unhealthy activity declares itself they are sick women. They have really worried their lives away and have accomplished nothing for themselves or others. You could not make a woman of this stamp take medicine for her nervousness, yet if ever a woman needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound it is this misguided soul who "has no time."

Her stock argument is, "Who'll do these things if I don't? Look nice. wouldn't it, if dust was an inch deep all over the furniture and all the clothes in the middle of the floor?"

You'll find such a woman "hasn't time" to keep her person scrupulously clean, that her teeth frequently go unbrushed for the same reason. Her personal appearance, too, is secondary to her duties. In fact, she "hasn't time" to wear her clothes if she buys them, or to make them if

It looks impossible to convince this woman of the error of her ways; but it's a pity, for there are many such women.

If some one who had influence with her would induce her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one pretext or another, and see to it that she found "time" to take it regularly for a while, this woman's neryous strain of haste would relax and presently she would begin to take an interest in something beside getting useless things done. This medicine of Mrs. Pinkham's is the true help for every woman whose nerves are in

Why need women wait until they are physical wrecks with long negfected female troubles? Why not get some good out of life by finding 'time" to pay attention to health?
